It is proposed that the City Council:

1. Authorize the City Manager to initiate a street name change for the portion of Bethune Street between Elgin Street and Ramey to R.W. Bivens Lane; and
2. Waive the fee for the application in the amount of $700; and
3. Waive the requirements to submit names, addresses and signatures of all abutting property owners concurring with the proposed street name change.

DISCUSSION:

Resolution #3253-09-2005 establishes procedures for the naming of City-owned facilities after deceased individuals and after living individuals in limited circumstances. The individual must have made an extraordinary contribution for the betterment of all Fort Worth. It has been proposed that a portion of Bethune Street between Elgin Street and Ramey Avenue be renamed R.W. Bivens Lane, as depicted on the attached map.

Roy Wilson Bivens left Brushy Creek, Texas with only $.38 in his pocket and built a church that became a magnet drawing people from all over Southeast Fort Worth. Members were often surprised at what happened on church grounds from parking lot helicopter landings to impromptu concerts by recording artists. Neighborhood people often brought their problems to him, but one that was unique involved hiring practices at the neighborhood grocery store. People who were not members of the church came to him when the new owner of the store fired all African Americans. His remedy was swift and effective: He told members to shop elsewhere. The store owner called and African Americans were rehired. The most recent church expansion unveiled the Roy Bivens Fellowship Hall which faces Bethune Street which is where a church parsonage was located. Pastor James Brown proposes renaming Bethune in honor of the deceased Pastor.

In order to waive the requirements, the City Council should make the two (1) that the waiver carries out a public purpose; and (2) that there are sufficient controls to ensure that the public purpose is carried out. Given the legacy of Roy Wilson Bivens in Fort Worth, the street name change and fee waiver are appropriate and serve a public purpose. If approved TPW will replace the streets signs, ensuring that the public purpose is carried out.
